If a secured proof of claim is filed and no objection to the claim is filed within 21 days thereafter, the chapter 13 trustee shall make plan payments on the secured claim in the amount reflected on the proof of claim. If an objection is filed within 21 days of the date that the secured claim is filed, then no payment shall be made on the claim until the objection is resolved. If a timely objection to the claim is made in accordance with the Bankruptcy Rules, and is sustained in whole or in part, any overpayment shall be promptly refunded by the secured creditor receiving the overpayment. It shall be the debtor's responsibility to collect any such refund that is not promptly made by the secured creditor. The deadline for filing objections to filed claims is 21 days after the proof of claim deadline. If no objection is filed by the deadline, the claim is an allowed claim and should be paid in accordance with the plan. Nothing in this rule precludes the reconsideration of the allowance of a claim pursuant to § 502(j) of the Bankruptcy Code
